

Post 1940 Publications

- Ace High! Western Comic [1954] -

This was another short-lived experiment from Frank Richards. Slick Dexter was a 16 year old from Panhandle who joined the Circle Bar ranch as a cow hand. The books also included a range of comic strip stories as well as Richards' story, and were published by Gould-Light Company, at sixpence an issue.

- Adventure Stories for Boys [1978] -

An anthology of around 400 pages, edited by John Carne [?] with an eclectic collection of stories. The dust wrapper showed a battleship at sea on fire.

103	The Haunted Tuckshop	Frank Richards	GHA 1928 [?]
-----	----------------------	----------------	--------------

- Armada Books [1965-1972] -

A paperback edition, commencing with Magnet reprints, switching to the post World War 2 Bunter books, and then back to Magnet reprints. They were published at irregular intervals from May 1965 through to August 1972. The initial books sold for 2/6, increasing to 3/6 with number 9 (which became 17 ½ pence once the UK went decimal), with number 13 onwards selling for 20 pence.

A series of Bessie Bunter books by Hilda Richards was also published by Armada, though these were all Schoolgirls Own reprints written by John Wernham.

- BBC Children's Annual 1956 [1955] -

Published by Burke, London, by arrangement with the BBC, at 7/6, edited by Freda Lingstrom. One of a sequence of early BBC annuals that ran from at least 1953-1959, including a range of stories and articles by television personalities or about current popular programmes. The 1956 annual includes a short story by Frank Richards titled "Just Like Bunter!", illustrated with a colour plate and photographs from the television series.

- The Best of Magnet & Gem [7.7.1967] -

Published by Fleetway Publications at 3/6 in large format, edited by Leonard Matthews, with thin cardboard covers.

- The Boys Friend Library Catalogue [1987]-

A catalogue compiled by W/O/G/ Lofts, privately published.

- Boys Will Be Boys [1948] -

A survey of boys popular fiction by E.S. Turner, published by Michael Joseph, It covered the period from the Victorian "penny dreadfuls" to the comics published prior to the Second World War.

- The Bristol Evening World [1949]-

A daily paper, published 6 nights a week, the Greyfriars' stories were reduced to very short extracts, tucked away in odd corners of the paper. The story ran from 23.4.1949 to 22.7.1949, and were illustrated by Tony Hawes.

- The Bumper Book series [c.1955 onwards] -

These were large format omnibus volumes that contained a variety of stories by different authors, and were reprinted from various sources. The series was originally published by Beaver Books, but Spring books took over reprinting many volumes at some point. Many books do not contain a publication date, so actual dates here are largely speculative. The series went up to at least volume 38. Charles Hamilton stories were reprinted from Billy Bunter's Own, Tom Merry's Own and Raymond Glendenning's Book of Sport for Boys, although not every Bumper Book contained stories by Charles Hamilton..

- The Bunter Books [1947-1965] -

Charles Skilton originally had the idea for publishing the books after seeing an article about Frank Richards in the Picture Post of 11th May 1946 entitled Do You Remember Billy Bunter? Frank Richards agreed to write them on a royalty basis. The first volume sold 25,000 copies almost immediately (the maximum allowed at the time due to paper rationing) and earned Frank Richards over £1,000. Cassell took over publication in 1952 with volume 11. The first 16 volumes were illustrated by R J Macdonald, but following his death C H Chapman took over with volume 17. The first volume cost 5/-, volumes 2-18 cost 7/6, 19-25 cost 8/6, 26-30 cost 9/6, 31-33 cost 10/6 and 34-38 cost 11/6.

Volumes 34-38 were published after Charles Hamilton's death. Allegedly, volume 34 was completed and the following 4 volumes written by an unknown author, though this is disputed by Charles Hamilton's niece.

Volumes 1, 6, 8, 15, 16, and 25 were reprinted in September 1982 by the Quiller Press; edited by Kay King (which meant updating the slang) and with illustrations by Victor Ambrus, priced at £4.95 each. They were not successful. 24 were also reprinted in facsimile format (including hard covers and reproductions of the original distinctive dust wrappers) by Hawk Books between 1991-1995.

- The Comet [1950-1958] -

Originally, The Comet reprinted a few early Magnet stories [85-96], until Frank Richards began supplying original stories [97-135]. After a gap, they then produced a series of picture stories, initially derivative [186-240], and then later by C H Chapman based on original Magnet stories again [407-518, though 506 onwards are by an unknown artist].

- Floreat Greyfriars [1965, re-released 1976] -

This long playing record consisted of a series of short talks by Charles Hamilton. On side one, entitled Greyfriars Remembered, this meant a series of comments on Harry Wharton, Billy Bunter, Hurree Singh, Fisher T. Fish, and Vernon-Smith, with Nigel Anthony reading extracts from a number of Magnet and post war Bunter stories. Side two, entitled personal reminiscences, had Charles Hamilton talking about his early days as a writer, his characters, gambling, and current occupations. Most of the short pieces were separated by brief snatches of incidental music; and the record started and finished with a Greyfriars school song. The track listing appears below. The record was re-released in 1976 in conjunction with the Howard Baker press, to celebrate the centenary of Charles Hamilton's birth.

- Four Square Books [1963] -

A short-lived paperback series that had little success.

1	Billy Bunter's Beanfeast	Frank Richards	Cassell 11
2	Billy Bunter Butts In	Frank Richards	Skilton 9

- French's Acting Editions -

The play Billy Bunter's Mystery Christmas was published in 1960, based on the production written and produced by Maurice McLoughlin at the Palace Theatre in 1958.

- Gold Hawk Books [1952] -

2 soft back publications were produced each month, published by Hamilton & Co. at 1/6 each – similar in size and format to the pre-War Schoolboys Own Library, but containing original stories. The series publication dates gradually petered out due to the tight restrictions on paper and probably the production of hardback St. Jim's stories (which were in fact advertised in the Goldhawk volumes).

The cover illustrations were by C.H. Chapman. Early volumes played up the attraction of Tom Merry, but later volumes brought A.A. D'Arcy to the fore, with his attempts to reform his shady cousin "Cad Cardew".

1	Tom Merry's Secret	Martin Clifford	February 1952
2	Tom Merry's Rival	Martin Clifford	February 1952
3	The Man from the Past	Martin Clifford	March 1952
4	Who Ragged Railton?	Martin Clifford	March 1952

5	Skimpole's Snapshot	Martin Clifford	April 1952

7	D'Arcy in Danger	Martin Clifford	May 1952
8	D'Arcy on the Warpath	Martin Clifford	July 1952
9	D'Arcy's Disappearance	Martin Clifford	August 1952
10	D'Arcy the Reformer	Martin Clifford	February 1953
11	D'Arcy's Day Off	Martin Clifford	February 1953

- Golden Hours [1960-1964] -

This was an occasional publication, produced by Syd Smith in Australia, and along similar lines to the Collector's Digest and Story Paper Collector. It was produced by members of the Sydney Old Boys Book Club, also called Golden Hours. It was followed by Golden Years Magazine, which ran from 1986 to 1995, with a similar range of contents and occasional publication schedule; and eventually became the Collecting Books and Magazines website.

- Greyfriars Book Club volumes -

These volumes were published in print runs of 400 or 500 copies, each individually numbered and signed by the publisher Howard Baker. Once the programme got going, readers were encouraged to subscribe to a run of planned future volumes (one volume published every two months) by submitting an intent form, and then paying for each volume as it was printed. Each volume was bound in imitation green leather, and came in a slip case, and cost £16. From volume 55 onwards the price increased to £18, and from volume 77 onwards the slip case was replaced by a clear plastic wrapper. The final volumes were reduced to a print run of 200 copies, although additional copies were printed and sold as individual Magnet facsimile issues. † Limited edition paperback reprint (400 copies at £25) published in 1983.

- Hawk Books -

In addition to publishing facsimile editions of 24 of the Skilton and Cassell Bunter books between 1991-1995 (see Bunter Books above), Hawk Books also published facsimile editions of other famous annuals and comics (Dan Dare from the Eagle, Rupert, etc.) They also published an omnibus volume of Bunter cartoons (see the Big Fat Bunter Book above) and the Complete Casebook of Herlock Sholmes in 1989, which collected together all Frank Richards' Sherlock Holmes parodies (mainly from the first world war Magnet, Gem and Greyfriars Herald). It seems that the facsimiles of the original Bunter books ended early due to copyright problems.

- Headland House series [1946] -

The Headland House series was a small format booklet published in 1946 by William C. Merrett, priced 1 shilling each. Hilda Richards was experimenting with yet another school, prior to being granted permission to continue with stories of Cliff House, etc. in 1947.

Published in hardback format with the story completely re-typeset rather than a simple facsimile of the original Schoolboys Own Library. The four volumes were reissued in a trade paperback format in Canada in 1989, with the original covers. An entry form for a promotional competition and a glossary of the slang used were included in each paperback.

- Howard Baker Magnet Editions [1969-1986] -

These volumes were hardback, with a colourful dust wrapper, and each contained on average 8 facsimiles of original Magnets, mainly from the 1920's and 1930's. Early volumes tended to select complete series of stories (usually from the 1930s), and avoided stories written by substitute authors. Later volumes had to include a variety of single stories, and those written by substitute authors. This was for three reasons: the Greyfriars Book Club volumes were gradually reprinting Magnets from the beginning (1908 onwards), earlier volumes had creamed off the best of the later series, and First World War Magnets were scarce.

The first volumes (published in 1969) sold for 2 guineas each (£2.50 when the UK went decimal). From number 5 the price increased to £2.75, from 27 to £3.20, from number 35 to £3.90 (and all prior volumes still in print increased to £3.50). From number 46 the price increased to £4.50, from number 70 to £4.95, from 74 to £5.95, from 78 to £6.95, from 80 to £7.95 and from 89 to £9.95. The last volume (100) sold for £12.95.

Some volumes were very popular with collectors and sold out very quickly. Volumes 5, 24 and 25 were reprinted in a new hardback edition with clear plastic dust wrapper [as volumes 4a, 24a and 25a]; as was volume 18 (a complete run of the "Stacey" series in volumes 16 and 17). Volumes 19, 21, 22 and 23 were later reprinted in a limited edition paperback format (400 copies only at £15 a time).

- Howard Baker Nelson Lee volumes [1972-1974] -

The original description of volume 2 in the Spring 1972 catalogue references Walter Starke and Kenmore's plot to get Nipper expelled; and how Nipper returns to clear his name. This is clearly a summary of Monster Library 6 (reprinting NLL 1/205-212). The actual volume itself reprints two short series from the second series of the Nelson Lee; so it is unclear whether plans were changed due to difficulty in finding a clean copy of the source material, or editorial confusion.

- The Knockout [1939-1961?] -

C. H. Chapman first started drawing 2 page strips for the Knockout in 1939, following a number of picture strip formats in the Magnet. However, due to the nature of the picture strips and other commitments, Chapman found it hard to keep to deadlines, and was replaced by Frank Minnitt as artist after 9 episodes. The strip was gradually modified to become more slapstick, and the cast was drastically pruned so that by 1942 the Famous Five had disappeared, being replaced by Jones Minor. Frank Richards was paid an honorarium of £5 for each strip produced, and the Knockout incorporated the Magnet when it stopped production in 1940, and was finally renamed Billy Bunter's Knockout in 1961. The Knockout Fun Annuals from 1940 onwards not only printed original Minnitt strips, but also reprinted some of the earlier Comet strips. Following Minnitt's death in 1958, the strip was taken over by a number of other artists, particularly Reg Parlett. A wide selection of these strips were reprinted in the Big Fat Bunter Book.

- Look and Learn [1963-1964] -

The editor as an experiment tried reprinting some early Magnet stories as an experiment. The fact that the first two stories used were by sub authors, and the stories were published in abbreviated instalments probably contributed to the lack of success, and the experiment was abandoned after three months.

The Chums of Lynwood was published by David Shields & Co. of Manchester and cost 3d. The Fourth Form at Lynwood was published by J.B. Publications of Stretford, and included 3 additional stories: Mick of the Spindrift and Bunker Bates on the Warpath by Frank Richards, and Steven Stern, Detective by W. Holton. Hamilton may have been experimenting with other schools and outlets before the hardback Greyfriars and St. Jims books and TV scripts assured him a steady post war income; but these characters made no other appearances.

- The Magnet No. 1 Facsimile [August 1965] -

This was published by Fleetway Publications at 1/6, with a 4 page wrapper giving a brief history of the Magnet and Greyfriars written by W. O. G. Lofts.

- Mandeville Books / Spring Books [1949-1955]-

The Tom Merry books were written by Charles Hamilton initially under his Gem alter ego Martin Clifford, presumably to emulate the success of the Bunter books published by Charles Skilton. The Tom Merry (and Jack of All Trades and Rookwood) novels were published by Mandeville Publications, who also published the Tom Merry Annuals, and the first three Billy Bunter's Own. Many of the Tom Merry novels were almost immediately reprinted by Spring Books, and later republished under Spring Books "Fanfare" imprint.

It is unclear what the relationship was between Mandeville and Spring as the editions had significant differences - the Mandeville editions were printed on better paper, with a frontispiece and illustrations in the text, whereas the Spring reprinted editions originally had no illustrations and a different dust wrapper. The initial Mandeville editions were published at 6 shillings. Later volumes from around 1951 cost 7/6 and were advertised in the pages of the Gold Hawk paperbacks.

Mandeville publications seems to have gone out of business at some point in 1954-55, at which point Spring Books took over publishing new Tom Merry novels, but with Frank Richards acknowledged as the author. Spring Books also published a variety of collections of boys' fiction (such as the Big Parade for Boys and later Bumper Books).

The three Jack of All Trades books left the Jack saga incomplete; further confused by the stories published in some of the Billy Bunter's and Tom Merry's Own annuals. According to the Collector's Digest, there were an additional 5 unpublished books in typescript form as follows:

Jack on His Own	Frank Richards
Jack Goes South	Frank Richards
Jack in Africa	Frank Richards
Jack in Danger	Frank Richards
Jack on the Treasure Trail	Frank Richards

- Mascot Schoolboy & Schoolgirl Series [1940's] -

This was a small format 20 page booklet from the 1940s published by John Matthew. The Schoolboy series featured stories of Bob Hood & Co. at Topham School, and the Schoolgirl series featured stories of Pam Duncan & Co. at St. Olive's school. They cost 4½ d each and were probably published late 1946 and early 1947, prior to Charles Hamilton gaining permission from the Amalgamated Press to write about Greyfriars, Rookwood and St. Jim's in 1947.

- Museum Press [1972-1986?]-

The Charles Hamilton museum was based in Maidstone in Kent, curated by John Wernham, and contained a vast amount of Hamiltonia. It is unclear whether or not the Charles Hamilton Library was linked to the museum (the librarian was Roger Jenkins), and there were also links to the Collectors Digest (whose editor was Eric Fayne for many years).

- New Music Express [19.12.1981] -

The New Musical Express (or NME) is a long running weekly music paper published by IPC (previously Fleetway Publications, previously the Amalgamated Press). In its Christmas issue for 1981 it published a spoof Billy Bunter story by "Richard Franks", with Billy Bunter and the Famous Five as adults at the Greyfriars discotheque and featuring various real indie/punk music stars of the time. It seemed a bizarre piece to appear in the NME (known at the time for being left-wing in its politics, and indifferent to most forms of music other than punk and its legacy, and the thriving independent music scene in the UK at that time). However, the illustration was a faithful parody of a blue & white Magnet cover, and the text did capture something of Frank Richards' inimitable style, cannibalising the first and last chapters of "Bunter Comes for Christmas".

- Raymond Glendenning's Book of Sport for Boys [1950-1962] -

This was an annual volume which ran for more than 20 years. Raymond Glendenning was a very popular sports commentator on BBC radio from the early 1940's onwards. The Book of Sports was fronted by him as a well-known personality and each volume contained a mixture of features on various sports, introduced stories of Skip & Co. at Felgate school by Frank Richards.

The volumes for 1950-1954 were published by Sportsguide, those for 1955-1960 by Andrew Dakars, the volume for 1961 by Spring Books, and the volume for 1962 by Vernon Holding. Whilst the Book of Sport continued beyond 1962 (and became the Grandstand Book of Sport), the Frank Richards stories did not, following Charles Hamilton's death in 1961.

- Searchlight: Adventure Stories for Boys [1961] -

This was a hefty (380 pages) story book published by Spring Books that included at least two Charles Hamilton stories.

Chancing It With Charne [Felgate]	Frank Richards	RGBOS 1950
Treasure of Temooka [King of the Islands]	Charles Hamilton	BBO 1953

- The Silver Jacket [1953-1955] -

A monthly Australian boys paper, costing 1 shilling, launched by Arthur Garfain, containing a mixture of fiction, articles, quizzes, etc. Apparently he had originally wanted new stories of Greyfriars, but had to settle for Carcroft stories as Frank Richards only initially had permission to write new Greyfriars stories for Skilton's hardback editions. As a result he started by printing Carcroft stories from Hutchinson's Pie, and then original stories from Frank Richards.

- Sparshott Series [1945-1946] -

The Sparshott series was a small format booklet published (monthly?) from December 1945 onwards by William C. Merrett, priced 1 shilling each. Frank Richards was experimenting with yet another school, prior to being granted permission to continue with stories of Greyfriars, etc. in 1947.

The Sun [1947-1959]

This was a 16 page comic published by the Amalgamated Press, which ran for 558 issues before being incorporated into Lion. It included reprints of some of the St. Jim's stories.

- Television Plays [1952-1961] -

These were commissioned by the BBC following the success of the Bunter Books, and all written by Frank Richards. The first one was shown twice on the same day [afternoon and evening]; and thereafter they were shown around tea-time. Unfortunately, very little money was invested in permanent sets, and some of the characters were little more than ciphers, but they were popular. Most episodes have been lost – those designated * are still extant in the BBC's archives. The series all starred Gerald Campion as Billy Bunter (who was 29 at the time!), and was based on the books written by Frank Richards. Known actors are listed for each series. Also, later to be famous, Michael Crawford made one of his first TV appearances in this series, as did David Hemmings and Melvyn Hayes.

- Tom Merry's Annual & Own [1949-1954] -

Hardback format with a colourful dust wrapper, published by Mandeville Publications. The first one was called Tom Merry's Annual, but all subsequent volumes were labelled Tom Merry's Own. This appears to have been due to the severe paper shortage and consequent rationing that prohibited the publication of new papers or comics, or guaranteeing to publish on a regular (e.g. annual) basis. They were all sold at 10/6

- The Valiant [1962- ?] -

The Valiant was primarily a boy's action paper, having to some extent taken over the role of The Eagle, and in direct competition with DC Thompson papers such as Victor. However, like most IPC comics, it plundered past comics' archives and printed a number of original Reg Parlett and reprinted some Frank Minnitt Billy Bunter strips in the 1960's and 1970's.

- Wonder Book of Comics [c. 1949] -

A 320 page book containing various reprinted stories, articles and comic strips published by Odhams, and including a Frank Richards story, accompanied by illustrations by Norman Mansbridge.

228 Billy Bunter's Booby Trap Frank Richards

- Yaroo! [1976] -

This was a complete pot-pourri, comprising a variety of Greyfriars items, including radio and tv scripts, and a host of non-Bunter material as well, edited by Gyles Brandreth. It was published by Eyre Methuen and cost £4.50

* Where more than one annual or omnibus volume was published in a year, they are referred to as (for example) A77a and A77b. See the Post 1940 index for details.

This would not have been possible without the following resources: The Autobiography of Frank Richards, The Friars' Club, The Greyfriars' Guide, Greyfriars since the Magnet, A History of the Magnet & Gem, The Magnet Companion '77, The Nelson Lee Library - A Complete Guide, The World of Frank Richards & The British Juvenile Story Papers and Pocket Libraries Index

Thanks to the research of (amongst others): D J Adley, George Beale, Bob Blythe, Mary Cadogan, Eric Fayne, Steve Holland, Roger Jenkins, W O G Lofts, Dr Peter McCall, Sylvia Reed & John Wernham

And thanks to the publications of: Bill Howard Baker & The Museum Press.
